the following recommendations:

- a. The Federal border police should be so constituted, equipped, and administered that it may serve as a cadre for such regular military forces as the Federal Republic may be permitted to establish in the future.
- b. As a consequence of the lack of progress made in the establishment of Laender alert police units, the Federal government should again attempt passage of a law changing the constitution so that the Federal alert police may be set up. In order to obtain the necessary 2/3 parliamentary majority required for a change in the constitution,

2. The Federal Ministry of the Interior is preparing a comprehensive police law (Rahmengesetz) in implementation of paragraph 75 of the Federal Constitution. It is intended that this law shall standardize police personnel administration, define functions of the numerous West German police units and, in general, bring some order into the chaotic police situation in Western Germany.
